7 A.M. Depart from Bangkok to Ang Thong Province It takes about 1-2 hours of travel time.

9 A.M. Arrive at Ang Thong Province. Take you to the Tha Sutthawat Temple. It is an old temple in the early Ayutthaya period. Originally named Wat Tha Suvarnabhumi which used to be a walking route in the war of the Ayutthaya period during the reign of King Naresuan as well. Therefore, within the temple found many artifacts, and within the temple area also The Palace Doll Center is located. Inside the temple, there is a chedi enshrining the Buddha's relics. It is a place of worship for the villagers. There are also murals in the chapel, which Somdej Phra Kanitthathirat Department of Her Royal Highness Princess Maha Chakri Sirindhorn Her Royal Highness Princess Maha Chakri Sirindhorn His Highness came to write a brush writing a picture of a mango tree in the story

"Phra Mahachanok" as a picture of His Majesty's hand in the mural. Then take you to see a demonstration of making palace dolls from clay at Ban Bang Sadet Palace Doll Center located within the area Wat Tha Sutthawat. It is a 2-story Thai-style building, on which the upper floor exhibits exhibitions. His Majesty the King along with the royal family and the ground floor is the works are exhibited and sold royal doll products, this makes it a learning center that allows tourists to come and watch the demonstration of making beautiful palace dolls from clay. Then lead you to Pa Mok Worawihan Temple, Ang Thong Province in the municipality of Tambon Pa Mok on the western bank of the Chao Phraya River, 18 kilometers from Muang Ang Thong district, is one of the most beautiful reclining Buddha images in Thailand. There is a length from the Mauli monks to the end of the King's feet, 22.58 meters, bricks, and mortar covered with gold. This Buddha image assumed that It was built in the Sukhothai period.

Amazingly, it is said that it floated and drowned in front of Ratsopuang Suang Temple and dragged it up to the river bank. There is also a legend about the reclining Buddha image as Talking Buddha with inscriptions by the recorder is Phrakhu Pamok Muni Abbot of Wat Pa Mok. This reclining Buddha image is ancient and comes with a temple. It is huge and very beautiful.

At noon Have lunch at a restaurant.

In the afternoon Take you on a journey to Khun Inthapramun Temple. It is another old temple in Ang Thong which is very beautiful. It is assumed that it was built in the Sukhothai period. And is enshrined reclining Buddha the second largest in Thailand, named Phra Sri Muang, which is 50 meters long, after the reclining Buddha at Bang Phli Yai Klang Temple in Samut Prakan Province. Within the area of Wat Khun Inthapramun, there are also other interesting ancient remains, the Viharn Luang Por Khao. Leaving only part of the base of the wall Buddha image Khun Inthapramun Statue Court and human skeleton that was unearthed in the reclining Buddha image area in 1998.

Then take you for a walk at San Chao Rong Thong Market or Wiset Chai Chan Market An old community located on the river Noi. For over 100 years making this has been an ancient market that still retains its charm and the way of life of people is full inside this market is full of traces of the past old wooden houses, old hotels, rice mills, grocery stores, Chinese and Thai medicine shops. Shops that organize their products in an old-fashioned way that we hardly see nowadays. It is also home to Guan Yu Shrine, an old shrine that has been restored to a beautiful Chinese shrine. Then take you to Muang Temple, an ancient temple that is assumed to be built in the late Ayutthaya period in the year 2230. This is a beautiful temple in Ang Thong Province where we can see a large Buddha image The golden glow is beautiful from a distance, which is Luang Por Yai or Phra Phuttha Maha Nawamin Sakyamuni Sri Wisetchaichan. The largest Buddha statue in the world with a lap width of 62 meters and a height of 93 meters, and it took 16 years to build.

In the evening

In the morning Have breakfast at the hotel restaurant. After food, you collect your luggage to check out from the hotel. Then take you to Tha It Temple. It is built in 1761 in an area where it is assumed that originally, it was a place for making bricks to be used for the construction of Wat Khun Inthapramun. Make when the temple is built. Therefore, it is called "Tha It Temple". Inside the ubosot enshrines the principal Buddha image named Reverend Father Petch and in the viharn enshrines Luang Pho Khao. Which is a Buddha image built in the Ayutthaya period. Older than 200 years ago. In addition, the distinctiveness of the temple is Phra That Chedi Si Pho Thong which looks like an octagonal chedi Lanka-Ayutthaya and Rattanakosin art forms, it is very beautiful, built to replace the old chedi that had decayed and to contain the Buddha's relics. Then lead you to Chaiyo Worawihan Temple or Wat Ket Chaiyo (Or the name that appears in the area is Wat Ket Chaiyo), originally Wat Rat. It is built in the Ayutthaya period but did not find a clear history of who created it. Until when Somdej Phra Buddhachan (To Phromrangsri) of Wat Rakhang Kositaram A large Buddha image was built at this temple during the reign of King Rama IV, or around 1857-1862. Therefore, Wat Chaiyo Worawihan became known. And has been famous since then by "Phra Maha Phuttha Phim" or "Luang Por To" is a sacred Buddha image. The people of Ang Thong and nearby provinces have a lot of faith. Enshrined in the viharn of Wat Chaiyo Worawihan There is a Buddha character in Rattanakosin art, meditation posture, cross-legged, lap-size 8 wa 7 inches.

At noon Have lunch at a restaurant.

In the afternoon Take you on a trip to buy souvenirs at Krua Chaiyo souvenir shop.

Then take you on a journey to see iron puppet art and take coffee photos before heading back to Bangkok at the Coffee House, Ban Puppet. When stepping into this cafe. We are entering the realm of Transformers with a large iron figure towering in front of the storefront. The interior is decorated with chairs, tables, and various equipment made of all steel. Set up like an old coffee shop where villagers often come together to sip coffee and talk about the news in the morning. Which is the origin of the place to be called "Coffee Council". Superheroes, robots, and dinosaurs brought the entire Jurassic World here. The menu is the name of the restaurant. Namely French rose tea and artisan chocolate that create ordinary food into works of art.
