07.30	Depart from Bangkok to Ayutthaya by VIP van, breakfast on the van.
09.30	Arrived at Ayutthaya, visit Bang Pa-In palace. Niwet Thammaprawat Ratchaworawihan Temple is located on an island in the middle of the Chao Phraya River on the south side opposite Bang Pa-In Palace. It was built in 1876 to be used as a place for the royal merit making when His Highness transformed to stay at the Bang Pa-In Palace which he ordered to create an imitation of a western church using gothic art (Gothic), especially the church of the temple, which is a building with a dome tower at the tip of a wihan in western architecture At the top of the dome is a clock tower and a series of bells, above is where the Buddha's relics is enshrined. After that, we would go to Bang Pa-In Palace. It is an ancient palace in the Ayutthaya period, built by King Prasat Thong since it was his birth place and used as a summer palace for the King of Ayutthaya until the loss of Krungsri to Burma. After the loss of Krungsri, Bang Pa-In Palace was abandoned and became known again when Sunthorn Phu, who accompanied King Rama I to worship the Buddha's feet in Saraburi. It was written to the Bang Pa-In Palace in the Niras Phra Bat. Until during the reign of King Rama IV, his majesty began to restore the palace, and during the reign of King Rama V, there was a major renovation by building royal residences, palaces and various palaces up to be used as a reception for royal guests and royal banquets on various occasions. Then visit a Japanese village to find Thao Thongkip Ma, the queen of Thai desserts. Today, we will take you to find her at the Japanese village and study all the stories of the Japanese who came to set up the village in the Ayutthaya period, which has a friendly relationship with Thailand for a long time.

Po Kong that Buddhists, both Thais and Chinese, have been respecting. When coming to this temple, it is not unusual to meet a large number of people who come to worship Luang Pho To. Yai Chaimongkol Temple is considered to be the most important historical temple and one of the most popular tourist temples in Phra Nakhon Si Ayutthaya Province. Therefore, it is common to see many tourists coming to this temple. The point of interest of this Wat Yai Chaimongkhon is a historical story in the Ayutthaya period Including outstanding architecture, see the tallest pagoda in Ayutthaya. Behind the temple, there is a palace of King Naresuan the Great for the devotees to pay respect to. In addition, the surrounding area has a beautiful garden to relax as well. Tourists who want to visit Ayutthaya should not miss it.

Mahathat Temple, we would take you to pay homage to amulets created in the early stages of the Ayutthaya period, which have been influenced by Khmer. The ground floor was built with laterite, but the new addition on the upper part was brick and mortar. King Prasat Thong renovated the pagoda by adding it higher than before, but now the top has collapsed, leaving only the porch. Therefore, it is unfortunate because there is evidence that it is a very large pagoda and very beautifully constructed in 1956.

Then take you to the Luang Pu Thuat floating market. Luang Pu Thuat Market is located in the area of the Great Luang Pu Thuat Buddhist Park Project, along the Asia Road, Km 44, Ban Mai Subdistrict, Maharat District, Phra Nakhon Si Ayutthaya Province. Anyone who has passed by this area often should have a chance to see a large statue of Luang Pu Thuad that stands out and is majestic, so we would take the opportunity to pay respects to get the blessings for ourselves and families.
