It is about 40 kilometers from the city of Satun and 22 kilometers from the shore at Pak Bara Pier. South to the sea is the border between Thailand and the Federation of Malaysia. It has an area of the island and the sea together about 1,490 square kilometers consisting of 51 islands. Including 7 large islands, namely Koh Tarutao, Koh Adang, Koh Rawi, Koh Lipe, Koh Klang, Koh Batuang, and Koh Bissi, which are divided into 2 large islands, namely the Tarutao Archipelago and the Adang-Ravi Islands It was declared a national park on 19

April 1974 and was honored by UNESCO in 1982 as an ASEAN Heritage Parks and Reserves. The ideal time to travel is between November and April. Take you on a journey to worship at Chao Por Tarutao Shrine. It was built in 1981 to commemorate the officers who had served in the fight against terrorists until their deaths. นำท่าน Take you to Koh Tarutao, which is the largest island of the park with an area of 152 square kilometers. Most of the area is mountainous with an evergreen forest that still has plants and trees. Not much interesting wildlife and part of the area are mangrove forests. There are also many large and small bays with beautiful beaches. And in the seas of Koh Tarutao, there are many species of fish, including sea turtles. 4 species are endangered. The word "Taru Tao" is distorted from the word "talo tera" in Malay, meaning there are many bays. Take you to Khai Island, a small island. One of the Tarutao National Parks is located between Koh Tarutao and Koh Adang. The charm of Khai Island is at a natural sculptured stone arch which is a symbol of Tarutao National Park any couple that has passed through this stone arch is believed to be fulfilled in their love and together happily ever after.
