Day 1: Bangkok Province – Bueng Kan Province – Sawang Arom Temple (Wat Tham Si Thon) - Wat Ahong Silawas - Kaeng Ah Hong

(-/-/-)

4 a.m. Depart from Bangkok to Bueng Kan Province Using a journey time of about 10 hours 40 minutes to eat. Your first meal has arrived. On the way, we will have snacks for you on the bus.

At noon Have lunch at a restaurant.

In the afternoon You will arrive at Bueng Kan Province and take you to Wat Sawang Arom Wat Tham Si Thon (Wat Tham Si Thon) is a temple with beautiful scenery, full of large and small stones and quiet, with a church on a large rock. The cave below is where the Buddha image is enshrined. reclining nirvana, the room at the top of the pagoda will represent the Daowadung heaven with a Buddha image instead of the Lord Buddha enshrined among the angels in the heaven's top atmosphere. The wind blows all the time, very cool. The view that looks out to the end across the Mekong to the country for our home Another important highlight of Wat Tham Si Thon is the bell tower made of thousands of jars that are strung together into amazing structures with different sizes of dragon jars, merging with the creator's ideas, creating a unique work that is worth watching.

Take you to Wat Ahong Silawas Located in Ban Ahong area, Mueang Bueng Kan District, Bueng Kan Province, approximately 21 kilometers from the district center, located on the banks of the Mekong River. Kaeng Ahong area is a large basin from From the Thai side to the Lao side, which is about a hundred meters long, Wat Ahong Silawas is one of the major tourist attractions in Bueng Kan Province. Due to the beautiful scenery, the area adjacent to the Mekong River is a line. The long arc is accompanied by a continuous story. Come about the belief in the Naga, making tourists popular to visit Wat A Hong and Kaeng Ah Hong uninterruptedly. It is believed that the front of the temple is the deepest point of the Mekong River with a depth of 200 meters. In this area, the water will flow turbulently until it forms a cone-shaped hole if there are wood chips, leaves, or small objects. Stuck will be swirled into a cone for about 20-30 minutes. Then slip away and move to another place, when there was a strong current again will form a new cone, alternating throughout the day. Therefore, it is believed that this is the point of the navel of the Mekong River from March to May of every year, one can see Kaeng Ah Hong. The rocky rapids in the middle of the Mekong River appear above the water. The rock group is named after the nature of the rocks, such as Hin Tong, Naga, Hin Pla Khe, and Pla Sawai Cave. In addition to being a resting place and a tourist attraction, the surrounding villagers also live in fishing. Take you to see the view at Kaeng Ah Hong, the rocky rapids in the middle of the Mekong River. In front of Ahong Temple Silavas at Baan Ah Hong, Hor Kham Sub-district is considered the point where the Mekong River is the deepest. The water flows around Kaeng Ah Hong in the rainy season and has a whirlpool in the form of water. A large cone, which locals believe to be the "Mekong navel". The Mekong River at Kaeng Ahong is about 300 meters wide in the low season and 400 meters wide in the flooding season.
