

Topic 5: Colors

I have heard that white and African-Americans dislike each other. I used to think that only few white and few African-Americans thought like that. But my father and my best friend told me “Color prejudice is a typical situation in many civilization countries”, so I feel bad. Why? Consider my thoughts. Please read and think because the God sent me to tell you.

Could you choose your skin color? Believe me, you could not, and all other good people all around the world could not the same as you.

The God chooses skin color, religion, country, and status for only some extraordinary people, whom the God sends to the world to do the God’s missions.

Therefore, why do you judge everyone around you by colors, or you think only colors can show their hearts? Why do you think African-Americans cannot have “white hearts”? Why do you think only white always have “white hearts”? The God sent me to be yellow because if I am African-American, white will dislike me, and if I am white, African-Americans will dislike me too. I am yellow, but I have a pure heart. Why African-Americans cannot have “white hearts” the same as a lot of white? Why?

You have a heart. Others have too. You can feel pain. Others can feel too. Not only you need love and respect, but also others, including African-Americans. You may think “A lot of African-Americans are not good”, but I sincerely believe that many African-Americans are not friendly just because a lot of white have pressed them, and have not still given more chances to them. Why do not you open your heart for African-Americans, who have “white hearts”? Why do you close your heart because you just think “They are African-Americans”?

You released slaves. Why do not you release your heart?
