The light & shadows of the desert sand MONDO is the contrast of the flatness of form versus the light & shadows created by the radiant lines.

The optics of the shadow play is the minimalist's form of decoration in porcelain.
The sparseness of the embossing working in harmony with the simplicity of the shape creates an intellectual & esthetic elegance.
