TOURIST ATTRACTIONS IN APRIL

April is one of the most vibrant times to visit Thailand, as it marks the Songkran Festival, the traditional Thai New Year, filled with fun, refreshing activities, and rich local culture across the country.

During this season, the atmosphere comes alive with water fights to beat the heat, merit-making and almsgiving, and the traditional “Rod Nam Dam Hua” ceremony to pay respect to elders for blessings. In many regions, the celebrations continue with the “Wan Lai” festival, extending the festive fun even further.

Whether in big cities or smaller towns, each place has its own unique charm, making April the perfect time for travelers to experience the excitement, warmth, and cultural richness of Thailand all in one trip.

SONGKRAN FESTIVAL

April is one of the most exciting months to visit Thailand, celebrated with the refreshing and vibrant Songkran Festival (Thai New Year). The entire country comes alive with water festivities, cultural traditions, and lively events known as “Wan Lai” (extended water celebrations).

Highlights you shouldn't miss:

- Chiang Mai Songkran Festival (6–17 April 2026)
- Wan Lai Festivals in Chonburi – Bang Saen – Pattaya
- Phra Pradaeng Songkran Festival
- Songkran at Wat Chaiwatthanaram, Ayutthaya

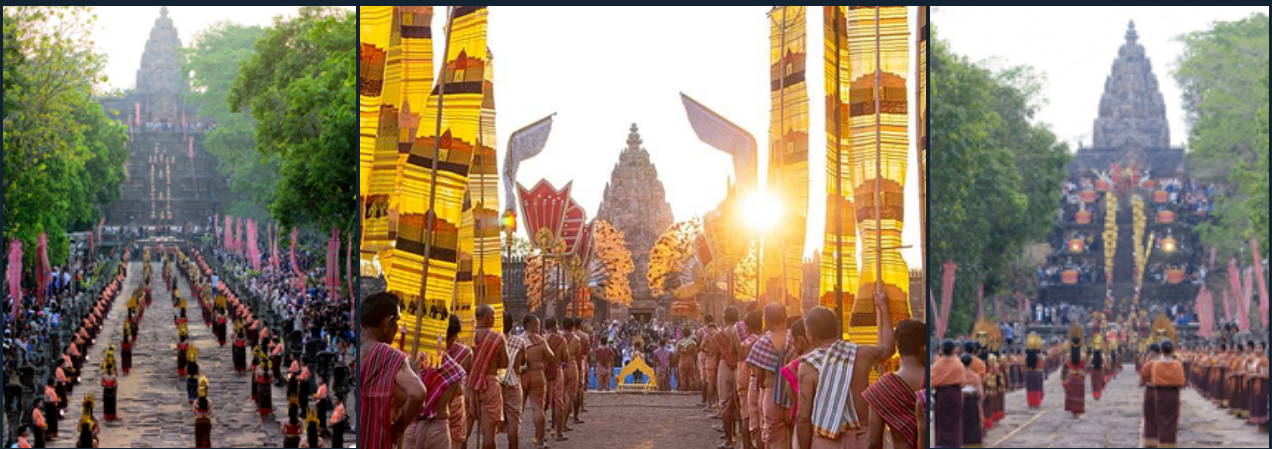

April in Thailand perfectly blends fun, culture, and tradition—making it an ideal time for travelers seeking both festive energy and authentic local experiences.

“PHANOM RUNG HILL CLIMBING TRADITION FESTIVAL 2026, “BURIRAM PROVINCE”

A phenomenon beyond imagination... the only one of its kind in the world, found in Buriram. You are warmly invited to experience the Phanom Rung Festival 2026. Witness the breathtaking moment when the sunlight aligns perfectly, shining through all 15 doorways of the ancient sanctuary at Phanom Rung Historical Park.

KHLONG ROOT KRABI PROVINCE

Khlong Root, also known as the “Crystal Clear Canal,” is a natural attraction with clear freshwater, perfect for kayaking, swimming, and relaxing picnics. Once a local canal, it was developed with a small dam to store water during droughts. Today, it’s a popular and lively destination especially in summer.

POI SANG LONG FESTIVAL 2026

MAE HONG SON PROVINCE

The Tourism Authority of Thailand (Mae Hong Son Office) shares that the Poi Sang Long Festival is an important tradition of the Tai Yai (Shan) people. It is considered a grand and significant celebration, held annually during March–April. The festival reflects the strong faith in Buddhism among the local communities of Mae Hong Son.

One of the highlights is the Sang Long procession (Krua Loo parade), which is renowned for its beauty and authenticity, preserving the ancient traditions of the Tai people. Alongside the vibrant parades, various Buddhist ceremonies are performed, adding spiritual significance to the event.

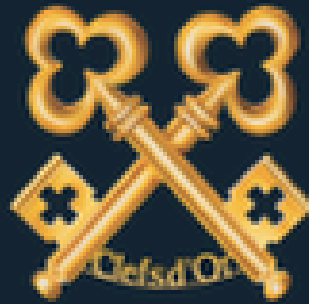

The Poi Sang Long Festival attracts both Thai and international visitors, who come to experience the cultural richness, participate in merit-making activities, and help preserve and pass on this cherished tradition from generation to generation.

THE SURIN ISLANDS

The Surin Islands, part of Surin Islands National Park in Phang Nga's Andaman Sea, consist of five islands, with Surin Nuea and Surin Tai as the main ones. Renowned for their pristine coral reefs and rich marine life, they are a top snorkeling destination.

Visitors can also explore the unique culture of the Moken people and see their traditional "Kabang" boats. Popular snorkeling spots include Koh Bon, Ao Pak Kad, Ao Chong Khat, and Ao Nemo—famous for its charming clownfish among sea anemones.

This exhibition presents a collection of photographs, personal journals, and installations that explore memories, hopes, and the internal moments often hidden beneath the surface. Visitors will encounter works that question our collective existence in this world, even when standing in different places or living through vastly different lives.

The exhibition “Ta-Lap-Ka-Rap” (Telegraph) invites us to re-examine the evolution of long-distance communication.

It traces back to the era of the Telegraph, which first enabled people to connect across vast distances.

As technology became woven into the fabric of daily life, the world was suddenly struck by the COVID-19 pandemic. In this new reality, being "close" meant having to keep a distance. Communication through technology was no longer just a matter of convenience—it became an essential condition for living and a vital tool for survival.

BLUEPRINT OF THE APOCALYPSE

Artist Karn Nativitakul transforms intangible disasters into tangible perceptions by presenting "Air" as a medium of life and a space that reflects profound inequality. Although defined as a public resource, air is not shared equally across social structures.

Karn uses art to illustrate that climate catastrophe does not only occur in sudden, violent bursts, but is also deeply embedded in history—becoming increasingly complex through the daily patterns of humanity. It creeps through plumes of smoke, dust particles, and scorching heat, evolving into a "new normal" atmosphere that silently steals the breath of us all.

ANGELS OF THE STREET

Time : 12:30 - 18:00 hrs.

Venue : VS Gallery

Website:

www.facebook.com/VSGalleryBangkok/

VS Gallery is proud to present "Angels of the Street," a photography exhibition by Preeyaporn Namcharoensombat. The collection invites viewers to explore the fashion subcultures and lifestyles of a specific group of young women through the female gaze.

These photographs reflect fashion through the lens of "Anti-Fashion," challenging social norms and stereotypes that have long been portrayed negatively or misunderstood within a patriarchal society—a system that has historically dictated definitions of "decency" and "propriety" over women's own experiences.

NEW OPENING

JAE BANK

Location: 5/F EmWonder, Emsphere, 628-630 Sukhumvit Road, Klong Toei, Bangkok.

Opening Hours: Daily 17:00- Late

Jae Bank brings loud music, loud fun, and loud Isaan food to Emsphere. Chef Vishnu Bernard Bank of Aromkwan fame promises “som tum more violent than your ex” at his new spot, Jae Bank. While the beloved smokehouse is temporarily closed, Chef Bank’s latest project promises just as much fun and just as juicy flavours. “Easy, spicy, and super yummy,” this new restaurant is inspired by Isaan street food, and serves up all the classics in a bold and colourful setting.

On the menu, you’ll find all your northeastern favourites, including larb, som tum, nam tok, koi, and grilled meats (pork neck, catfish, or even duck beak, to name a few). Pair these with Jae Bank’s signature sticky rice (which is soaked in pandan leaf water), and enjoy the cheeky posters on the walls, the disco balls, and the colourful tables in a comfortable, no-fuss environment. Currently, Jae Bank is in its soft opening stages, but we can already imagine it’s about to be the latest hit inside EmWonder.

TABLE 1749

Opening Hours: Tuesday - Saturday 18:00-22:00 hrs.

Kicking off the space's debut is Philipp Prinzbach, the head chef of Maison Dunand, who is using his hiatus from the Michelin-starred kitchen to embark on a solo endeavor here.

Chef Philipp has introduced the Culinary Passport concept—a globetrotting journey delivered via a four-course tasting menu (B2,400++). The fun begins the moment you sit down: instead of reading a list, you're asked to choose your menu based on the scents that resonate with you most. Once you've made your choice, you're handed a boarding pass for the city that inspires your meal. The best part? You and your dining companions might end up on completely different culinary journeys.

BÁNH MIMI

The group tapped Chef Chalee Kader to help curate a menu that breathes new life into Vietnamese staples—starting with the ubiquitous Bánh Mi. The baguettes here hit that perfect sweet spot: a crisp crust with a soft, airy texture. They are stuffed generously with your choice of protein, from smoky grilled pork and savory meatballs to indulgent crispy pork belly. A zesty Vietnamese-style pickle adds a spicy, bright kick to every bite.
